The UoM Guide to the Harvard System of Referencing

When writing a piece of work you will need to refer in your text to material written or produced by others. This procedure is called citing or quoting references.

Consistency and accuracy are important to enable readers to identify and locate the material to which you have referred. The same set of rules should be followed every time you cite a reference. The system used at the University of Mauritius is the Harvard System.

The Harvard System

All statements, opinions, conclusions etc. taken from another writer's work should be cited, whether the work is directly quoted, paraphrased or summarised. In the Harvard System cited publications are referred to in the text by giving the author's surname and the year of publication (see section (i)) and are listed in a bibliography at the end of the text

Sources/authors: the person or organisation shown most prominently in the source as responsible for the content in its published form should be given. For anonymous works use 'Anon' instead of a name. For certain kinds of work, e.g. dictionaries or encyclopedias, or if an item is the co-operative work of many individuals, none of whom have a dominant role, e.g. videos or films, the title may be used instead of an originator or author.

Dates: if an exact year or date is not known, an approximate date preceded by 'ca.' may be supplied and given in square brackets. If no such approximation is possible, that should be stated, e.g. [ca.1880] or [no date].

All examples in this are fictitious and any resemblance to existing works is coincidental.

Citation in the text

quotations – as a general rule in the University, if the quote is less than a line it may be included in the body of the text in quotation marks. Longer quotations are indented and single-spaced quotation marks are not required. For citations of particular parts of the document the page numbers etc. may be given after the year in parentheses.
Summaries or paraphrases – give the citation where it occurs naturally or at the end of the relevant piece of writing.
Diagrams, illustrations – should be referenced as though they were a quotation if they have been taken from a published work.
If details of particular parts of a document are required, e.g. page numbers, they should be given after the year within the parentheses.
Rules for citation in text for printed documents also apply to electronic documents except where pagination is absent. If an electronic document does not include pagination or an equivalent internal referencing system, the extent of the item may be indicated in terms such as the total number of lines, screens, etc., e.g. "[35 lines]" or "[approx. 12 screens]".

Examples

- (i) If the author's name occurs naturally in the sentence the year is given in parentheses: -
  - E.g. In a one of his major works, Toussaint (1980, p.84) argued that we need to take good decisions...
  - E.g. As Toussaint (1980, p.84) said, "good decisions need to be taken" and so we...
- (ii) If the name does not occur naturally in the sentence, both name and year are given in parentheses: -
  - E.g. A more recent study (Sherlock 2001, p.211) has shown how theory and practical work interact. E.g. Theory rises out of practice, and once validated, returns to direct or explain the practice (Sherlock 2001, p.211).
- (iii) When an author has published more than one cited document in the same year, these are distinguished by adding lower case letters (a, b, c, etc.) after the year and within the parentheses: -
  - E.g. John (1972a, p.31) elaborates on...
- (iv) If there are two authors the surnames of both should be given: E.g. Bretzel and Hansel (1895, p.251) have argued that...
- (v) If there are more than two authors the surname of the first author only should be given, followed by et al.: -
  - E.g. In many rural areas, people have farms with a total amount of.... (Picket et al.
  - 1928, p.31) (A full listing of names should appear in the bibliography.)
- (vi) If the work is anonymous then "Anon" should be used: E.g. In an article (Anon 1995, p.69) it was stated that...
- (vii) If it is a reference to a newspaper article with no author the name of the paper can be used in place of "Anon": -
  - E.g. Lots of travellers seem to be going to Mauritius. (Newsweek 2005, p.3) (You should use the same style in the bibliography.)
- (viii) If you refer to a source quoted in another source you cite both in the text: -
  - E.g. A research by Rosas (1997 cited Banes 2001, p.98) showed that... (You should list only the work you have read, i.e. Banes, in the bibliography.)

- (ix) If you refer to a contributor in a source* you cite just the contributor: -
  - E.g. Textile industries have been cited as the cornerstone in this field (Bedford 1958, p.56).
  - See below for an explanation of how to list contributions (chapters in books, articles in journals, papers in conference proceeding) in the bibliography.
- (x) If you refer to a person who has not produced a work, or contributed to one, but who is quoted in someone else's work it is suggested that you should mention the person's name and you must cite the source author: -
  - E.g. Richard Hammond stressed the part psychology plays in advertising in an interview with Matthews (2001, p.87).
  - E.g. "Expressive interfaces will always elicit positive emotions", Bob Seagull said in a recent article (Kendall 2003, p.87).
  - (You should list the work that has been published, i.e. Matthews and/or Kendall in the bibliography.)

Personal communications: -

□ Taken from: AIA, 1990. Publication Manual of the Artificial Intelligence Association. 2nd ed. Port-Louis: AIA.

They do not provide recoverable data and so are not included in the reference list.

Cite personal communications in the text only. Give initials as well as the surname of the communicator and provide as exact a date as possible.

E.g. Many designers do not acknowledge the usability issues. (Personal communication, May 20, 1994).

References or Bibliography

At the end of a piece of work, list the references to documents cited in the text. This list may be called a Bibliography or more commonly References. Exceptionally you may be asked to list references not cited in the text but which make an important contribution to your work. These are usually listed under the heading of Further Reading.

In the Harvard System, the references are listed in alphabetical order of authors' names. If you have cited more than one item by a specific author they should be listed chronologically (earliest first), and by letter (1998a, 2001b) if more than one item has been published during a specific year.

Whenever possible, elements of a bibliographical reference should be taken from the title page of the publication.

Each reference should use the elements and punctuation given in the following examples for the different types of published work you may have cited. Underlining is an acceptable alternative to italics when bibliographies are hand written.
